Sustainability at the Core

KRAIBURG TPE supports manufacturers in reducing their carbon footprint with bio-based and recycled-content TPEs for automotive, smart consumer electronics, and personal care applications.

KRAIBURG TPE's commitment to sustainability is reflected in its ISCC PLUS certification for selected TPE compounds produced at its facility in Germany as well as GRS certification for TPE compounds manufactured at its Malaysian production site; plus, its ability to support customers with product carbon footprint values.

Smart Consumer Electronics Solutions

Featuring scratch, abrasion, and chemical resistance, along with soft-touch surfaces and vibrant colors, our TPE grades are the perfect fit for wearables, VR devices, and gaming accessories. KRAIBURG TPE also offers halogen-free, flame-retardant TPEs (GWIT 960°C at 2mm, UL94V0) for enhanced safety; and Light Effect TPEs for aesthetic lighting applications.

Engineered for durability, comfort, and performance, our TPE series combines weather resistance, soft-touch surfaces, and chemical stability, making it ideal for automotive interiors, exteriors, and powertrains.

Safe & Compliant Packaging TPEs

Our high-performance TPE materials comply with the FDA, EU, and GB 4806.7-2023 (China) food contact safety standards, ensuring safe use in food, cosmetic, and skincare packaging. With excellent chemical resistance and no animal-derived ingredients, they are well-suited for these applications.

Innovative TPEs for Medical & Healthcare

The THERMOLAST® H series fulfill invitro cytotoxicity requirement according to ISO 10993-5 and GB/T 16886.5 (China), making them ideal for applications such as syringe gaskets, tubing, resealing membranes, and medical packaging
